There was a considerable attendance at Happy Valley on Saturday afternoon, to witness the return match between the Kowloon Bowling Green Club and the Police Recreation Club. Twenty-one heads were played. The match was evenly contested, although neither team was at full strength and at the conclusion Kowloon won by seven points. The president of the visiting club, Mr Robertson, proposed the health of the Police Recreation Club to which Inspector Withers The scores are appended :--

Cricket.

These members of the Hongkong Cricket Club, from whom the selection for the Interport Cricket team to play at Shanghai will be made, put in a good afternoon's practice at the nets, on the Cricket ground on Saturday afternoon. Corporal Gooding was the best bowler on the day's practice. The scores made were as follows :-Liout. F.R. Home 6 E. W. Day ... A. A. Claxton ... 11 E. H. Hinds ... 11 Captain Oliver ... 5 W. Edwards ... 21 H. R. Makin ... 24 Captain Beasley 22 Corporal Gooding 14 E. B. Reed ... 12 C. T. Beath 2. 5 A. O. Brawn ... 13 A. W. J. Peake ... 8 J. H. Chalmers 7 F. H. H. Stevans 5 T. E. The Kowloon Cricket Club opened their Cricket season on Saturday, with a match against the Civil Service C. C. at King Park. Neither side were strongly represented. R O. Hutchinson showed early form scoring 39 which included one 8. good stand between this player and H. Coembes, not out 26, was the only saving feature of a poor but pleasant game which ended in an easy victory for the visitors.

THE KAISER'S PRIVATE

Death of Dr. Lucanus. Berlin, August 3. Dr Lucanus, private secretary to the Em peror, died this morning. He was a typical representative of that veiled absolutism of his official career serves to remind those who labour under the delusion that the Ge man Empire is governed by modern constitutional methods that this is not so. His position as chief of the Imperial Civil Cabinet made him more powerful than any of the Emperor's responsible Ministers. The Civil Cabinet is an ancient Prussian institution which flourished under SHINNEW and KAMIYAMADA Col. Frederic the Great, and still flourishes in the twentieth century. Its functions are numerous and varied in character; all intercourse between the Emperor and all the Imperial German and royal Prussian Ministries, with the single exception of. the Foreign Office, takes place through the Civil Cabinet, whose chief has to report to the monarch on the recommendations made to him by his responsible Ministers. If the Imperial State Department of the Interior desires to lay a report before the Emperor, this cannot be done directly, but the document must first pass through the hands of the Civil Cabinet, in order. that its chief may master its contents and report thereon to the Kaiser. Similarly, all other imperial departments of State, as

> Dr Lucanus's hands every year, so that he was able to exercise a far-reaching influence over the conduct of public affairs. The chief of the Civil Cabinet is ap. pointed by the Emperor and is responsible to no one but his imperial master, so that he is entirely free from parliamentary control, and he is equally free to ignore those indications of public opinion which responsible Ministers, even in Germany, can afford to defy. Dr. Lucanus, who was a Prussian bureaucrat of the old school. fully believed in the Divine right of Germany's monarch, and he encourage well as all Prussian Ministries, are obliged to submit to the supervision of the Civil Cabinet in their communications to the Emperor. Many thousands of the weight-iest State documents thus passed through in direct opposition to public opinion, thereby rendering his imperial master the worst possible sevice. His influence was especially harmful in bygone controversies between the Emperor, in his Majesty's capacity as King of Prussia, and the municipality of Berlin, in which the Kaiser insisted on exercising sovereign wishes of the citizens of the capital.

AN INVIDIOUS TASK. It is eminently characteristic of the semi-absolutist conditions prevailing in notifics his wish to the Minister who has fallen into diefavour through his foremost Cabinet. Dr Lucanus, who was appointed to the office shortly after the present Error of the Civil 19th September, both days inclusive.

General Managers. to the office shortly after the present Emperor's accession, had to perform this duty many times. It was Lucanus who called on Prince Bismarek at the Chancellor's official residence in Wilhelmstrasse, and informed Germany's greatest statesman that the Emperor desired him to resign without delay. The part which he played in that great personal and political drama will ensure him historical fame, although of a doubtful kind for he treated Prince Bismarck on that occasion with scant courtesy, which was a reflection of the displeasure of his imperial master. During the last two decades every Minister who was dismissed his office learned his fate from Dr Lucanus's lips. In many cases the Emperor's sudden decision came as a surprise to the unready victims. Whenever Dr. Lucanus had to deal with statesmen and high State officials his attitude towards them always faithfully reflected the Kaiser's feelings towards them; if the Kaiser regarded the man in question with favour, Dr. Lucanus was very polite; if the statesman had incurred the imperial disfavour the late secretary was brusque, as in dealing with Prince Bismarck. A recent instance of the late Secretary's activity in this direction occurred in dismissing Count Posadowski, who on the morning of the day of his dismissal was totally unaware that Dr. Lucanus would visit him that afternoon to demand his immediate (Continued on Page 3.)

unwarrantable interpretation of the Court.

According to the vernacular press it Canton and Hongkong several instances have come to light of Chinese firms in this Colony breaking the agreement made early in the year to boycett Japanese goods. It appears that these firms have been induced, among other things, to purchase ginseng, the sum of the import amounting to nearly twenty piculs. What other articles may have been purchased does not appear. This led one of the Guild to issue a strong protest, which was published in Canton and in Hongkong. It is interesting to note that, among other reasons assigned why native shopkeepers should be true to their pledge, is the fact that Foreign nations will laugh at the Chinese, if they yield, thus acknowledging that they shifting sand." SPORTING.

Aquatic Sports at the V. R.

There was a fair attendance of spectators the Victoria Recreation Club on Saturday afternoon, to witness the swimming events which the Committee had arranged and which took place in the enclosure. The racing was keen, and some close finishes resulted, particularly so in the final of the Two Lengths, when Remedian just touched from Ellis, though the latter had somewhat of an extra second or so having entered the water before his time. The plunging and diving were also keenly contested, while the water pole match and the team race created the necessary spice of enthusiasm which was lacking in th other events. 🜼
